Integration Planning Team Leadership Announced

The pending combination of Medtronic and Covidien announced in June represents a tremendous opportunity to create the world's premier medical technology, services and solutions company.

Immediately following the acquisition announcement, both companies began planning the integration process. To that end, the companies have created a joint organization – the Integration Management Office (IMO) – to drive the integration planning efforts during the period leading up to the close of the transaction (expected in the fourth quarter of 2014 or early 2015) and executing the integration in the post-closing period.

As the IMO organizational snapshot below shows, a Joint Steering Committee (JSC), comprised of Medtronic and Covidien senior leaders, oversees the IMO, which is jointly led by Geoff Martha (Medtronic) and Bill Burke (Covidien). The IMO is charged with analyzing the capabilities, processes and people that will best serve the combined company when the proposed acquisition closes.

Co-leaders who will head IMO work streams in the areas of Strategy, Finance, Communication and Organization have also been named for Medtronic and Covidien. These individuals will be supported by colleagues in their respective functions with the goal of successfully launching the new Medtronic on its first day of operation (see chart below).

Over the next few weeks, the IMO will be launching teams of subject matter experts to develop detailed integration plans for functions, businesses/products and regions. Each of these teams will be jointly led by Medtronic and Covidien leaders. Their focus will be to ensure integration readiness immediately after closing. The names of those leaders will be announced shortly.

In a joint announcement, Geoff Martha and Bill Burke said: “As our respective teams have come together for this integration planning, we have realized the passion we share for patients around the world. By putting patients’ interests first, we know we will succeed in our efforts to transform healthcare.

Finally, it is important to reiterate that we are in the planning stage and we must continue to operate as independent companies and stay focused on delivering on our current commitments to customers, shareholders and patients.

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking Statements

Statements contained in this communication that refer to New Medtronic's, Medtronic's and/or Covidien's estimated or anticipated future results, including estimated synergies, or other non-historical facts are forward-looking statements that reflect Medtronic's and/or Covidien's current perspective of existing trends and information as of the date of this communication. Forward-looking statements generally will be accompanied by words such as anticipate, believe, plan, could, should, estimate, expect, forecast, outlook, guidance, intend, may, might, will, project, or other similar words, phrases or expressions. It is important to note that these goals and expectations are not predictions of actual performance. Actual results may differ materially from current expectations depending upon a number of factors affecting New Medtronic's business, Medtronic's business, Covidien's business and risks associated with the proposed transactions. These factors include, among others, the inherent uncertainty associated with financial projections; restructuring in connection with, and successful close of, the Covidien acquisition; subsequent integration of the Covidien acquisition and the ability to recognize the anticipated synergies and benefits of the Covidien acquisition; the risk that the required regulatory approvals for the proposed transactions are not obtained, are delayed or are subject to conditions that are not anticipated; the anticipated size of the markets and continued demand for Medtronic's and Covidien's products; the impact of competitive products and pricing; access to available financing (including financing for the acquisition or refinancing of Medtronic or Covidien debt) on a timely basis and on reasonable terms; the risks of fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates; the risks and uncertainties normally incident to the medical device industry, including competition in the medical device industry; product liability claims; the difficulty of predicting the timing or outcome of pending or future litigation or government investigations; variability of trade buying patterns; the timing and success of product launches; the difficulty of predicting the timing or outcome of product development efforts and regulatory agency approvals or actions, if any; potential for adverse pricing movement; costs and efforts to defend or enforce intellectual property rights; difficulties or delays in manufacturing; reduction or interruption in supply; product quality problems; the availability and pricing of third-party sourced products and materials; risks associated with self-insurance and commercial insurance; successful compliance with governmental regulations applicable to New Medtronic's, Medtronic's and Covidien's facilities, products and/or businesses; changes in the laws and regulations, affecting among other things, pricing and reimbursement of pharmaceutical products; health care policy changes; risks associated with international operations; changes in tax laws or interpretations that could increase New Medtronic's, Medtronic's and/or Covidien's consolidated tax liabilities, including, if the transaction is consummated, changes in tax laws that would result in New Medtronic being treated as a domestic corporation for United States federal tax purposes; the loss of key senior management or scientific staff; and such other risks and uncertainties detailed in Medtronic's periodic public filings with the SEC, including but not limited to Medtronic's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended April 25, 2014, in Covidien's periodic public filings with the SEC, including but not limited to Covidien's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended September 27, 2013, and from time to time in Medtronic's and Covidien's other investor communications. Except as expressly required by law, each of New Medtronic and Medtronic disclaims any intent or obligation to update or revise these forward-looking statements.
