Item 7.01. Regulation FD Disclosure

Beginning July 1, 2017, Microsoft Corporation (the Company) elected to early adopt the new accounting standards for revenue recognition and leases. The Company is furnishing this Form 8-K under Regulation FD to present the Company's previously reported financial information on a basis consistent with the standards. Beginning with the quarter ending September 30, 2017, the Company's financial information will reflect adoption of the standards with prior periods adjusted accordingly.

Revenue from Contracts with Customers

In May 2014, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued a new standard related to revenue recognition. The Company elected to early adopt the standard effective July 1, 2017 using the full retrospective method, which requires the Company to restate each prior reporting period presented consistent with the standard.

Adoption of the standard had a material impact on the Company's consolidated income statements and balances sheets, but had no impact to cash from or used in operating, financing, or investing on the consolidated cash flows statements. The most significant impact of the standard relates to the Company's accounting for software license revenue. Specifically, for Windows 10, the Company recognizes revenue predominantly at the time of billing and delivery rather than ratably over the life of the related device. For certain multi-year, commercial software subscriptions that include both distinct software licenses and Software Assurance, the Company recognizes license revenue at the time of contract execution rather than over the subscription period. Due to the complexity of certain commercial license subscription contracts, the actual revenue recognition treatment required under the standard depends on contract-specific terms and in some instances may vary from recognition at the time of billing. Revenue recognition related to the Company's hardware, cloud offerings such as Office 365, LinkedIn, and professional services remains substantially unchanged.

Leases

In February 2016, the FASB issued a new standard related to leases. The Company elected to early adopt the standard effective July 1, 2017 using a modified retrospective approach, which requires the Company to recognize and measure leases at the beginning of the earliest period presented. The Company elected to apply the available practical expedients on adoption.

Adoption of the standard had a material impact on the Company's consolidated balance sheets, but did not have a material impact on the consolidated income statements and had no impact to cash from or used in operating, financing, or investing on the consolidated cash flows statements. The most significant impact of the standard is the recognition of right-of-use assets and lease liabilities for operating leases on the consolidated balance sheets. The Company's accounting for capital leases remains substantially unchanged.

Financial Information

Refer to Exhibit 99.1 for financial information on a basis consistent with the new standards for fiscal year 2017 and 2016.

The Company will host a conference call/webcast at 1:30 p.m. Pacific time (4:30 p.m. Eastern time) on August 3, 2017 to discuss the new standards. The session may be accessed on the Microsoft Investor Relations website at <http://www.microsoft.com/en-us/investor>.
