Letter, dated September 20, 2007, from the Reporting Persons to the Issuer

September 20, 2007

Caroline:

It was a pleasure again meeting with George, Bruce, and you on Monday, and I appreciate your consistent availability. Once again, I came away from our meeting with the impression that you will continue to do what is necessary to increase shareholder value. I was very encouraged that your thoughts in regards to the strategic fit of WRCA, Atlanta, certain other low cash flow stations, and the land at the KDWN tower site seem to be consistent with our views.

After further reflection, and in light of the Federal Reserve action this week (which lowered your borrowing costs and should reinvigorate growth in a number of your markets), we would fully support a more aggressive approach to repurchasing Beasley's stock. We have bought Beasley shares on approximately 70 days since last July, yet roughly 50% of our current position was purchased on only 4 days. This type of flexibility is obviously not available to you under your current share repurchase plan, and we appreciate the frustrations you have expressed in executing your current repurchase.

According to our internal projections, before considering proceeds from potential asset divestitures, Beasley will have in excess of $20MM of cash and availability under its current conservative credit facility at the end of the 3rd quarter of 2007, and will have significantly more availability at the end of this fiscal year. An additional $1MM of cash would be available with the sale of your publicly traded stake in Miva.

With the market's continued reluctance to realize the significant value of the portfolio of assets that your family has built over the years, it may be time to accrete value for yourself and your long term partners through a Dutch tender offer for shares. During this potentially brief window in which the public markets continue to unfairly penalize your stock price, we would fully support a tender offer up to or above the full amount of your remaining authorization under your May 2007 plan. I would be happy to further discuss our thoughts on this mechanism for increasing shareholder value at your convenience.

We appreciate your willingness to continue to evaluate all options to increase shareholder wealth.

Sincerely,

Kevin Prigel, CFA
