The following factors, among others, could cause actual results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements:

AmREIT may not be able to sustain the rental rate increases upon lease renewals that it has recently experienced;

AmREIT and REITPlus may experience tenant defaults due to recessionary conditions, as well as tenant bankruptcies and abandonments of leases;

general economic conditions, either internationally or nationally or in the jurisdictions in which REITPlus or AmREIT are doing business, may be less favorable than expected;

legislative or regulatory changes, including changes in environmental regulation, may adversely affect the businesses in which REITPlus and AmREIT are engaged;

there may be environmental risks and liability under federal, state and foreign environmental laws and regulations;

Dear Shareholder,

Our primary focus for the past 18 months has been the execution of Vision 2010, our comprehensive strategic plan to create value for our shareholders by making our platform more efficient (phase one), simplifying our capital structure (phase two), and preparing for growth as our nation's current recession passes (phase three). During phase one, we took some bold steps to simplify our operating platform to become more productive by eliminating two inefficient areas of AmREIT. In so doing, we were able to reduce AmREIT's overhead expenses by approximately 50% and increase the predictability of its earnings and cash flow.

Our first step in phase two was the redomestication of AmREIT to Maryland. Of AmREIT's shareholders who voted, approximately ninety-three percent voted to approve the AmREIT Board recommendation. As previously announced, the final step in phase two of Vision 2010 is our proposed merger with REITPlus, a Houston-based non-traded REIT sponsored by AmREIT that is also domiciled in Maryland. Following the proposed merger, the name of the combined company will be changed to AmREIT, Inc.

Upon consummation of the merger, the boards of the two companies will be combined, and we will operate under the direction of a combined 7-member board of directors, with six of the members being independent. Our management team and both boards believe that the merger will:

Simplify AmREIT's capital structure, making the combined company more attractive to lenders, national securities exchanges, institutional investors and securities analysts, as well as helping us to better weather the deep recession in which our nation finds itself;

Provide for a more sustainable earnings and liquidity model that would better enable the combined company to pay a stable dividend and decrease the likelihood of liquidity issues and dividend cuts in the future (although no assurances can be given);

Facilitate the raising of additional equity and debt to fund the growth anticipated in phase three of Vision 2010;

Provide savings of administrative costs, including reduced legal, audit and overhead costs;

Eliminate conflicts of interest in the allocation of opportunities between AmREIT and REITPlus and provide REITPlus with internal management; and Allow AmREIT shareholders to exchange their shares on a tax-deferred basis, except to the extent of cash paid for fractional shares.

The independent board of trustees of AmREIT and the independent board of directors of REITPlus unanimously recommend that you vote FOR this proposal.

Edgar Filing: AMREIT - Form 425

As we complete this final step in phase two of Vision 2010, we believe we will be in a good position to build meaningful liquidity for all our shareholders through phase three. This may take the form of re-listing on a major stock exchange, bringing in large institutional investors and/or launching an Initial Public Offering. All this, of course, is contingent upon the health of the economy, the state of the capital markets, and the commercial real estate industry. We cannot predict when the national economy, generally, and the commercial real estate economy, specifically, are going to turn, but whenever that may be, we must be positioned to take advantage of the inevitable opportunities that will present themselves. Your management, the board of trustees of AmREIT and the board of directors of REITPlus believe this merger will so position us.

We have prepared this summary piece for you to read in conjunction with the enclosed joint proxy statement/prospectus. We encourage you to thoroughly read the enclosed materials and to visit AmREIT's website at www.amreit.com, where you can find additional information on AmREIT, its properties, our management team and board. In addition, please contact us if you would like additional insight or help by calling 713-850-1400 to speak with either Chad Braun, Chief Financial Officer of both AmREIT and REITPlus, at extension 124, our investor services group at extension 135 or 151, or myself at extension 114.

I would like to thank each of you for your investment and trust during these very challenging times. All of us are optimistic and enthusiastic about building our company and look forward to striving each day, with God's help, toward a bright future.

Best Regards,
H. Kerr Taylor
Chairman and CEO
AmREIT and REITPlus, Inc.

Questions & Answers

Will the proposed merger improve the potential for shareholder liquidity?

(See the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, Reasons For and Consequences of the Merger, page 45)

Your respective boards and management believe that the proposed merger should improve our opportunities for liquidity. As we have sought counsel from top national banks, real estate investment banking firms, securities analysts and shareholders, the broad consensus of these constituencies agrees with this opinion. The proposed merger will complete phase two of our strategic plan, Vision 2010, and position us for phase three which is liquidity and growth. Currently, neither the REITPlus shares nor any of the AmREIT shares trade on an established securities exchange. The small size of REITPlus and the complicated capital structure (three separate classes of common stock) of AmREIT make liquidity very challenging. The combination of the two companies will create a conforming REIT with a single class of common stock that should position us to access capital through the public markets or by attracting institutional investors as the national and commercial real estate economies emerge from our current recession.

For these reasons and others, your board unanimously recommends that you vote YES for the proposed merger.

What happens if the merger does not go through?

(See the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, Risk Factors, page 24)

We have spent the last 18 months working on Vision 2010, consulting with national real estate investment banking firms, real estate securities analysts, and commercial banks. We believe that the merger between AmREIT and REITPlus positions the combined company and its shareholders with the best potential for liquidity, sustained dividends, and growth.

If we are unsuccessful with the merger, we will likely not be able to reinstate the dividends for REITPlus. REITPlus has only one real estate investment, has not achieved efficiencies with its operating expenses, and is not generating cash flow to support dividends.

If we are unsuccessful with the merger, we believe AmREIT's ability to raise capital and debt in the future could be significantly damaged. If the merger is not consummated, the AmREIT board of trustees may deem it prudent to begin setting aside reserve funds to meet unanticipated capital needs of the company and to pay down debt. These funds would most likely be generated through a reduction of dividends.

Additionally, both the AmREIT and REITPlus boards have spent an estimated $1.3 million to accomplish the merger. If we are unsuccessful, this expense would have a negative effect on REITPlus and AmREIT's operating results and ability to pay distributions.

*WalgreensWhat will happen to my dividends after the merger?(See the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, Dividend Policy, page 23)

Your respective boards and management believe that the proposed merger will improve the potential that dividends will be sustained. It is our desire to maintain AmREIT's current dividend of $0.50 per share per year for the combined company following the merger. However, it must be emphasized that there can be no guarantee that dividends will not be reduced in the future, even if the merger is approved. The combined company's ability to pay dividends depends on many factors that are outside of our control, such as occupancy at our properties, liquidity in the market, and overall health of our balance sheet and our industry. The following table sets forth the anticipated dividends per share based on AmREIT's current $0.50 per share dividend rate and the proposed exchange rate for each class of AmREIT common stock after the merger.

Dividend Pre Merger	REITPlus⁽²⁾	Class A Stock	Class C Stock	Class D Stock
Per Month	$0.0250	$0.0416	$0.0583	$0.0541
Per Year	$0.30	$0.50	$0.70	$0.65
Exchange Ratio	1.0 to 1.0	1.0 to 1.0	1.16 to 1.0	1.11 to 1.0
As Converted Dividend Equivalent
Per Month	$0.04166	$0.04166	$0.04833	$0.04583
Per Year	$0.50	$0.50	$0.58	$0.55
Annual Difference per 1,000 shares	$200	$ -	($120)	($100)
Yield on Original Investment	5.0%	(1)	5.8%	5.5%

(1) Based on the multiple historical issuance prices, we are not able to calculate a yield on original investment.

(2) As of September, 2009, REITPlus suspended its monthly dividend due to insufficient operating cash flow.

How was the value for the merger established?

(See the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, Opinion of AmREIT's Fairness Opinion Provider, page 47-51)

Your respective boards and management have been extremely diligent in hiring some of the most experienced and recognized valuation and fairness experts in the nation. Each of the AmREIT properties and the REITPlus property was appraised by one of two independent third party national commercial real estate appraisal firms: CB Richard Ellis or Valuation Associates. In addition to being used by each of the independent boards, these appraisals were used by KeyBanc Capital Markets, a nationally recognized real estate investment banking firm, which rendered a fairness opinion for the transaction. KeyBanc utilized three well known, traditional valuation methodologies to arrive at its conclusion that the stock price of $9.50 per share and the applicable conversion rates were both fair, from a financial perspective, to the AmREIT shareholders. Each of these professionals took into consideration the current stressful economic climate. The class A shares will convert on a one-for-one basis. The class C shares will convert on a 1.16 to 1.0 basis due to their 10% conversion premium. The class D shares will convert on a 1.11 to 1.0 basis due to their 5.5% (7.7% prorated for 5 years) conversion premium.

This valuation is supported by the quality of our real estate portfolio, which targets high barriers to entry, dense populations (100,000 people in a 3-mile radius), strong average household incomes ($80,000 in a 3-mile radius) and high traffic counts (30,000 cars per day). As the following chart shows, our portfolio demographics rank high as compared to other shopping center REITs.

Will the merger be taxable to me as a shareholder?

(See the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, Material Tax Consequences of the Merger, page 14)

No. The merger is intended to qualify as a reorganization for federal tax purposes. Therefore, holders of AmREIT common stock are not expected to recognize any gain or loss upon the exchange of their shares (except with respect to cash received for fractional shares). Your individual tax consequences will depend on your personal situation. You are urged to consult your own tax advisor for a full understanding of the tax consequences of the merger to you.

For these reasons and others, your board unanimously recommends that you vote YES for the proposed merger.

SUMMARY RISK FACTORS

The consummation of the merger, as well as an investment in shares of REITPlus common stock and the combined company, involve significant risks, including the following (see the Joint Proxy Statement/Prospectus, Risk Factors, pages 24-35):

The values of the Class A stock and the REITPlus common stock, which are important factors in determining the Class A Exchange Ratio, the Class C Exchange Ratio and the Class D Exchange Ratio, were estimated by the AmREIT Board and the REITPlus Board, respectively, and were based on the appraised value of the real estate and the delivery of a fairness opinion by KeyBanc Capital Markets, not on an active trading market. Accordingly, there can be no assurance that the exchange ratios accurately represent the relative values of the various classes of AmREIT common stock and the REITPlus common stock or appropriately allocate the merger consideration among the various classes of AmREIT common stock.

AmREIT shareholders have no rights to demand cash payment for their shares of AmREIT common stock in connection with the merger, and objecting AmREIT shareholders will be required to accept REITPlus common stock, if the merger is consummated. Therefore, AmREIT shareholders will have no right to receive fair value in cash for their shares of AmREIT common stock and will generally have no means of disposing of such stock.

The combined company's common stock will not have a trading market and will have some limited restrictions on transferability, which may prevent the combined company's shareholders from selling or transferring their REITPlus common stock.

REITPlus and AmREIT expect to incur significant costs and expenses in connection with the merger, which could result in the combined company not realizing some or all of the anticipated benefits of the merger.

There may be unexpected delays in the consummation of the merger, which would delay AmREIT shareholders' receipt of the merger consideration and could impact AmREIT's ability to timely achieve cost savings associated with the merger.

REITPlus has interests in the merger that may be different from, or in addition to, the interests of other AmREIT shareholders generally, which may cause REITPlus and its shareholders to realize financial benefits at the expense of AmREIT and its shareholders.

Failure to complete the merger could negatively impact REITPlus's and/or AmREIT's business, financial condition, operating results and cash flows, including the ability to service debt and to make distributions.

After the merger is completed, AmREIT shareholders will be governed by the REITPlus Charter, and AmREIT shareholders will have different rights that may be less advantageous than their current rights.

The combined company may be unable to effectuate the contemplated growth strategy, which may curtail further property acquisitions or reduce cash available for distributions to shareholders.

The interest of the combined company's shareholders could be diluted, which may adversely impact the ownership position and other interests of the combined company's shareholders.

The combined company may own properties in joint ventures with unrelated third parties, which properties could be adversely affected by the combined company's lack of sole decision-making authority, its reliance on its joint venture partner's financial condition, and disputes between the combined company and its joint venture partner.

The combined company may not be able to obtain capital to make investments, which could adversely affect its growth, its ability to make capital expenditures and its ability to make distributions to shareholders.

AmREIT is subject to conflicts of interest arising out of its relationships with its merchant development funds, and there can be no assurances that AmREIT shareholder interests and investment objectives will take priority.

Tenant, geographic or retail product concentrations in AmREIT's real estate portfolio could make the combined company vulnerable to negative economic and other trends.

Covenants in AmREIT's debt instruments could adversely affect the combined company's financial condition and its acquisitions and development activities.
