FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Internet Gold is Entering the International Voice Market

Announcing a customer focused strategy, offering registered customers a unified price of 0.45 NIS to many of the popular dialing destinations, changing current market rules by simplifying the service

Introductory offer of 0.15 NIS for the first 15 minutes

Petach Tikva, Israel, August 6, 2004 - Internet Gold (Nasdaq: IGLD) announced that starting tomorrow it will offer a complete international voice service under 015 prefix to the general public.

Internet Gold is the first to leverage the Ministry of Communication's decision to widen the competition in the market. The Company received its license on June 2, 2004 and has now finished the technological, logistical and marketing set-up in order to successfully enter the market.

Internet Gold has rapidly built a state-of-the-art VoIP infrastructure based on Veraz's soft-switch and ECTel's anti-fraud system. During the last weeks, the Company has performed successful field-tests to ensure voice quality and overall functionality.

Internet Gold's General Manager Eli Holtzman stated "This is a major event for us and just like our early days, when we entered the Internet market, we plan to again dramatically change the international voice market. We will focus on the consumer needs offering a simple, clear and friendly service. We estimate that the total number of minutes in the market will grow by 20% and we aim at a 10% market share in order to become a key player in this market as well."
