II. BASES AND METHODS FOR VALUATION

Determination of the value of the shares of a company is subject to several variables, and also to several non-controllable factors, so that it will always take into account some subjective aspects. As an example we quote some of the main factors which affect such determination:

- (a) The outlook of the proprietors, versus the outlook of a potential purchaser.
- (b) The economic conditions that permitted the results of the past may be more advantageous, or less advantageous, in the future.
- (c) The political and economic context may vary significantly and unpredictably.
- (d) Finally, the various methods of valuation may generate significantly different results.

This being so, the work of determination of the value of securities representing the registered capital is not something precise, and contains subjective aspects, depending on the expectations of the proprietor and the use to be given to the securities.

There are, however, several methods used to estimate the value of capital securities. Although such methods vary in their applicability, depending on specific facts and circumstances, they can at least indicate a range of reasonable values for the preliminary determination of such value.

2.1. EXAMPLES OF METHODS BASED ON THE NET VALUE OF THE ASSETS

Valuation of stockholders equity

This valuation approach is used to determine the fair market value of specific assets, provide the basis for certain adjustments to net book value (as mentioned above) and as a point of departure for the estimate of liquidation value. Valuation of stockholders equity also provides an adequate basis for the value of the business, and is frequently used in transactions in which companies are bought and sold, the value being adjusted by depreciation and obsolescence applicable to specific assets.

Liquidation value

The liquidation value has been used as a basis for negotiation of price and, thus, represents an initial level, of interest both to purchasers and vendors.

The liquidation value is determined through an estimate of the value of the company's assets, assuming their conversion into cash in a reasonably short space of time, less the value of all of its obligations and the cost of liquidating the business, including valuation fees, brokers' fees, taxes and legal fees.

The liquidation value may be determined on the basis of consideration of either an orderly liquidation, or a more rapid, forced liquidation, of the business. The latter, clearly, results in a lower value.

2.2 EXAMPLES OF METHODS BASED ON THE RETURN ON INVESTMENT

Price/earnings ratio

For listed companies the price/earnings ratio is well known and can be easily used to obtain an estimated value of the shares of listed companies by multiplication of the P/E by the expected aggregate results. The average P/E for the industry or for various comparable listed companies can be used to arrive at an indication of the amount. Frequently, a premium for stockholding control is added to this estimated amount.

Valuation by the P/E method can also be used to estimate the value of a given company. Assuming a rate of growth of earnings estimated by the present stockholders and a return on investment desired by the acquiring party, this can determine the earnings multiple which would enable it to achieve its objective in terms of return. This method allows the purchaser to determine the price that he is willing to pay, for comparison with the price desired by the vendor.

Discounted cash flow

Discounted cash flow analysis may be used to estimate the value of a company, and consequently of its shares, based on the present value of its cash flow estimates. In theory, this method should result in the same amount as is determined by using the price/earnings ratio, since the latter reflects the present perception of what the company will be worth in the future.

In practice, this analysis is used increasingly to determine the value of a company because it is based on an actual estimate of cash flows, incorporating factors such as reduction of costs resulting from synergies, development of products, etc., and not on the simple market perception of the company's future profits. Other factors that affect the stock market and, consequently, the P/E ratio, are also eliminated when the discounted cash flow method is used.

To determine the value of stockholders' equity at market prices of COMPANHIA VALE DO RIO DOCE, on the base date December 31, 2005, considering its characteristic as both an operational company and a holding company, the application of the usual criteria for valuation of assets inevitably includes determination of the value of the investments which it holds in its subsidiaries and affiliated companies. recorded on December 31, 2005.

For the purposes of this Opinion, we adopt as a valuation criterion, as required by Article 264 of Law 6404/76, adjustment to market value of the net assets of COMPANHIA VALE DO RIO DOCE existing on the base date December 31, 2005, both of the holding company and also of its subsidiaries and affiliated companies, and the recognition of these adjustments, by the equity method, in its stockholders' equity.

The marking to market of the net assets of the controlling company COMPANHIA VALE DO RIO DOCE and its subsidiaries and affiliated companies took into consideration the legal definitions and requirements, notably Article 264 of Law 6404/76, and also the methodology established in Article 183, § 1, of that law. This methodology considers that assets should be valued at their net realization value vis-à-vis third parties (market value), on the assumption of immediate discontinuation of the company's activities.

For the purposes of the provision of the above Article, market value is considered to be:

- (a) for raw materials and goods in working inventory, the price of replacement by purchase in the market;
- (b) for goods and rights destined for sale, the net realization price upon sales to the market, less the taxes and other expenses necessary for the sale, and the profit margin;
- (c) for the investments, the net value for which they can be sold to third parties.

Among the parameters decided for the preparation of this present valuation, the determination of book value (net value at market prices) of the stockholders' equity of COMPANHIA VALE DO RIO DOCE and its subsidiaries and affiliated companies, for the base date December 31, 2005, is based, also, on a limited review of the financial statements of the said companies raised on that date. This procedure was carried out in accordance with certain usual rules of auditing, and consequently includes examinations in the accounting records where necessary in the circumstances for the specific purpose of determining stockholders' equity at market prices. These examinations showed that these records and elements were vested with all the legal formalities, including those in relation to obedience to the general accounting principles usually accepted and uniformly and consistently applied by the company.

Additionally, the accounting statements of COMPANHIA VALE DO RIO DOCE and its subsidiaries and affiliated companies were examined by other independent auditors on December 31, 2005, and their opinion, dated March 6, 2006, contained no reservations.

These revised accounting statements, for the said base date, with the objective of showing the assets reported at their respective realization values, already include the following accounting provisions:

Provision for doubtful receivables;

Provision for difference of weight of ore at destination;

Provision for difference of price;

Provision for losses on investments;

Provision for Eletrobrás losses;

Provision for losses on various debits;

Provision for losses on investments in tax-incentive arrangements;

Provision for depreciation;

Provision for asset losses;

Provision for depletion in mining rights.

Additionally, so as to adapt the said accounting statements to market price, as detailed in the table below and demonstrated in APPENDICES I to XIX, adjustments were included to the following account lines:

Expenses paid in advance;

Deferred tax asset items calculated on tax losses, to be offset against future earnings;

Investments adjustments to stockholders equity arising from adjustments to market made in the subsidiary and affiliated companies:

Property, plant and equipment, based on preliminary studies carried out by the company's technical managers and also on research and reviews carried out by us specifically for this purpose:

- (a) The mining rights, the principal item of adjustment of this valuation, were valued on the basis of the cash flow forecasts discounted to present value, assuming no investment is made in the period.
- (b) The other significant asset items were valued based on the valuation made for the purposes of insurance cover.
- (c) The railroad assets arising from concessions were not re-valued, since the concession contract provides that at the end of their period the federal government will indemnify the concession holders based on the residual accounting value at that time.
- (d) For the other remaining (non-significant) assets it is considered that the net accounting value is close to market value and for this reason they were not re-valued.

Deferred assets.

The statement of the adjustments which we made is as follows:
