Item 7.01. Regulation FD Disclosure.

At an investment conference on Tuesday, March 14, 2006, Company executives will provide investors with an update regarding its guidance for the March quarter and on current conditions in the hard drive industry. Specifically, the Company expects to communicate the following:

The Company is re-affirming its guidance for the third fiscal quarter ending March 31, 2006, with expectations of:

Revenue between $1.025 billion and $1.075 billion.

Gross margin percentage of approximately 19%.

GAAP earnings per share of between $0.36 and $0.40.

As is typical, pricing and demand dynamics for the month of March will determine the Company's financial performance for the March quarter.

Regarding industry conditions and new products and technologies, the Company will reiterate that:

As expected, demand in the desktop hard drive market in the March quarter is reflecting the typical seasonal downtick from the stronger December quarter.

The Company's non-desktop business and associated new product momentum continues, helping to partially offset the March quarter seasonal patterns.

Price declines have remained within expectations for the quarter.

OEM demand and sell-through in the distribution channel are tracking to expectations. The demand outlook for calendar 2006 remains strong in the key markets served by the Company, which include the desktop, mobile, DVR, branded products, and enterprise SATA markets.

Weeks of inventory in the distribution channel for the industry and for the Company are within the long-stated manageable range of 4 to 6 weeks.

The Company's programs for products incorporating 160 gigabyte per platter and perpendicular magnetic recording technologies continue to progress on plan.

This Form 8-K contains forward-looking statements, including statements concerning conditions in the hard drive industry, the Company's expectations regarding pricing, inventory levels, demand for hard drives, the progress of the Company's next generation technology programs and the effects of seasonality in the March quarter, and the Company's current outlook for revenue, gross margin and earnings per share for the third fiscal quarter ending March 31, 2006. These forward-looking statements are based on current management expectations and are subject to important factors that could cause actual results to differ materially from those expressed in the forward-looking statements, including: pricing trends and fluctuations in average
