Methode Electronics, Inc. Responds to Dura Automotive's Announcement of A Planned Unsolicited Tender Offer for Its Class B Shares

CHICAGO, July 3, 2003 Methode Electronics, Inc. (Nasdaq: METHA) today announced that its Board of Directors will meet to evaluate and respond to Dura Automotive's (Nasdaq: DRRA) announcement of its planned unsolicited cash tender offer for Methode's outstanding Class B stock.

In the interim, Methode Electronics urges its Class B stockholders to defer making a determination whether to accept or reject any possible offer by Dura until the Board has met and issued its recommendation.

Warren Batts, Chairman of Methode's Special Committee and a Class A Director of the Company said, "I do not believe that the planned tender offer by Dura is in the best interests of Methode's Class A stockholders."

There are currently 35.1 million shares of Class A stock outstanding and 1.1 million shares of Class B. Under the current corporate structure, the Class B stockholders control 75% of Methode's board of directors. The market capitalization of Dura Automotive's publicly traded common stock is approximately $164 million and Methode's is approximately $416 million. Methode will advise stockholders of its position regarding this planned offer and state its reasons for such position as soon as feasible.

Methode Electronics is currently soliciting proxies to receive authorization from its Class A stockholders to acquire its Class B shares of stock. A special meeting is set for July 10, 2003 in that matter.
