Items 9 and 12. Other Events and Regulation FD Disclosure; Results of Operation and Financial Condition.

On March 28, 2003, BioDelivery Sciences International, Inc., a Delaware corporation (the "Company"), filed its Annual Report on Form 10-KSB (the "10-KSB") with the Securities and Exchange Commission. On April 1, 2003, the Company issued a press release summarizing its financial and operational results for its fiscal year ended December 31, 2002.

Edgar Filing: BIODELIVERY SCIENCES INTERNATIONAL INC - Form 8-K

In footnote 2 to the financial statements appearing in the 10-KSB, the Company disclosed that it entered into a licensing agreement with a company (which is a shareholder), which license included an up-front non-refundable payment of $2 million, which was received in January 2003. The Company has deferred the revenue and will recognize it over the period of the related research and development commitment. The agreement also provides for milestone payments. This license agreement was previously disclosed via a Current Report on Form 8-K, dated January 7, 2003, at which time the Company requested confidential treatment with respect to, among other matters, such $2 million payment. Notwithstanding such confidential treatment request, the Company has disclosed such payment as part of its 10-KSB and this Current Report.

Item 7. Financial Statements and Exhibits.

Set forth below is a list of Exhibits included as part of this Current Report.

99.1 Press Release of the Company, dated March 31, 2003, summarizing its financial and operational results for its fiscal year ended December 31, 2002.

BioDelivery Sciences International, Inc.
Reports 2002 Results

Net loss per share for 2002 was $.51, compared to $1.15 in 2001.

Newark, New Jersey, April 1, 2003 - BioDelivery Sciences International, Inc. (NASDAQ:BDSI; BDSIW) today announced results for its fiscal year ended December 31, 2002.

In 2002, BDSI had sponsored research revenue of $828,000, compared to $478,000 in 2001. Virtually all revenue in both years was from a Small Business Innovation Research Grant from the National Institutes of Health.

In June, 2002, BDSI completed its initial public offering, resulting in approximately $8.6 million, net of offering costs of approximately $2.4 million.

At December 31, 2002, BDSI's financial condition includes cash and cash equivalents totaling approximately $5.2 million, compared to approximately $76,000 at December 31, 2001. In addition, the Company had a receivable of $2 million from a sublicense agreement, which sublicense agreement the Company announced on January 7, 2003 and which was collected in January 2003.

James A. McNulty, BDSI's Chief Financial Officer, reported, "Our efforts in 2002 to advance our lead proprietary product, Bioral(TM) Amphotericin B are on target, with almost two years completed of the three-year NIH Grant. Our initial public offering was successful and our financial structure will finance our expected costs through 2004. Staffing at our Newark, New Jersey laboratory is in place. We are finalizing some laboratory improvements and needed scientific equipment purchases, with financing commitments currently in place, which improvements we expect to be finished by mid-2003. We will continue to manage costs and available resources as we pursue outlicensing of our delivery nanotechnology for applications in pharmaceuticals, vaccines, gene therapy, OTC drugs, nutraceuticals, supplements and, through our Bioral Nutrient Delivery, LLC subsidiary, processed food and beverages."

BioDelivery Sciences International, Inc. is a biotechnology company that is developing and seeking to commercialize a patented delivery technology designed for a potentially broad base of pharmaceuticals, vaccines, over-the-counter drugs, nutraceuticals and micronutrients in processed foods and beverages. Additional details relating to BDSI's financial and operational results for 2002 may be found in its Annual Report on Form 10-K for 2002, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on March 28, 2003. Such Report is available free of charge via EDGAR at the SEC's website, www.sec.gov. and at BDSI's website, www.bdsinternational.com.
