ARCADIS SELECTED FOR PRESTIGIOUS PROJECT IN AMSTERDAM

ARNHEM, The Netherlands September 19, 2005 ARCADIS (NASDAQ: ARCAF, EURONEXT: ARCAD), the international consulting and engineering company, announced today that it has been selected after a tendering procedure as an advisor for the prestigious Zuidas-Dok (Southern Axis Dock) project in Amsterdam.

With the Zuidas project, the Dutch government and the city of Amsterdam, together with other parties, want to create a high quality environment for living, working and leisure with international stature. To make the project possible, the A10 highway, railroad connections, subway and tram lines will be brought underground, and all connections will be consolidated into one terminal to optimize connectivity between public transportation modes. In the coming years, several billions of euros will be invested in the construction of this project.

The Southern Axis Dock project is the largest integrated infrastructure and real estate project in the Netherlands. The plans call for the development of more than a million square meters of commercial real estate with offices, stores and leisure facilities, as well as housing. These will be realized right above the area where the infrastructure facilities are brought underground.

ARCADIS was assigned to the project by the team that is responsible for the preparation of the integrated development of the underground infrastructure and commercial development. This team is led by Jan Doets, who has been appointed in this position by the city of Amsterdam and the Dutch state.

In the coming period of calculating and drawing, ARCADIS will in cooperation with public and yet to be selected private parties be responsible for providing engineering services to the underground infrastructure and the high-rise constructions above ground level. In addition, the Company will make a plan to ensure the level of quality in the environment in all aspects for existing users, as well as those who will move in over time.

Reacting to the news, Douwe Kras, Managing Director for ARCADIS Dutch activities said: We are very pleased that we have won this prestigious contract. It will allow us to apply our integrated approach with a wide range of disciplines, including project management and consultancy services, to make this project a success.
