Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking
Information and Adjusted Information

This presentation includes snapshot information about PNC used by way of illustration. It is not intended as a full business plan and should be viewed in the context of all of the information made available by PNC in its SEC filings. The presentation also contains forward-looking statements regarding our outlook or expectations relating to PNC's future business, operations, financial condition, financial performance, liquidity levels, and asset quality. Forward-looking statements are necessarily subject to numerous assumptions, risks and uncertainties that may change over time.

The forward-looking statements in this presentation are qualified by the factors affecting forward-looking statements identified Cautionary Statement included in the Appendix, which is included in the version of the presentation materials posted on our corporate website at www.pnc.com/investorevents. We provide greater detail regarding some of these factors in our 2008 Form 10-K and 2009 Form 10-K, and in our other SEC filings (accessible on the SEC's website or through our corporate website at www.pnc.com/secfilings). We have included web addresses here and elsewhere in this presentation for informational purposes only. Information on these websites is not part of this document.

Future events or circumstances may change our outlook or expectations and may also affect the nature of the assumptions, risks and uncertainties which our forward-looking statements are subject to. The forward-looking statements in this presentation speak only as of the date of the presentation. We do not assume any duty and do not undertake to update those statements.

In this presentation, we may refer to adjusted results to help illustrate the impact of certain types of items. This information should be viewed as reported in accordance with GAAP and should not be viewed in isolation from, or a substitute for, our GAAP results. We believe that the information and the reconciliations we provide may be useful to investors, analysts, regulators and others as they evaluate the information on our results for the periods presented.

In certain discussions, we may also provide information on yields and margins for all interest-earning assets calculated using a non-taxable-equivalent basis by increasing the interest income earned on tax-exempt assets to make it fully equivalent to interest income on taxable investments. We believe this adjustment may be useful when comparing yields and margins for all earning assets.

This presentation may also include a discussion of other non-GAAP financial measures, which, to the extent not so qualified, are not qualified by GAAP reconciliation information available on our corporate website at www.pnc.com under "About PNC Investments".

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking
Information

Appendix

This presentation includes snapshot information about PNC used by way of illustration and is not intended as a full business plan. It should be viewed in isolation but rather in the context of all of the information made available by PNC in its SEC filings.

We also make statements in this presentation, and we may from time to time make other statements, regarding our outlook or our revenues, expenses, capital levels, liquidity levels, asset quality and/or other matters regarding or affecting PNC that are forward-looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act. Forward-looking statements are typically identified by words such as anticipate, intend, outlook, estimate, forecast, will, project and other similar words and expressions. Forward-looking statements are based on numerous assumptions, risks and uncertainties, which change over time.

Forward-looking statements speak only as of the date they are made. We do not assume any duty and do not undertake to update forward-looking statements. Actual results or future events could differ, possibly materially, from those that we anticipated in our forward-looking statements. Actual results could differ materially from our historical performance.

Our forward-looking statements are subject to the following principal risks and uncertainties. We provide greater detail regarding these risks in our 2008 Form 10-K and 2009 Form 10-Qs, including in the Risk Factors and Risk Management sections of those reports, and in our other forward-looking statements may also be subject to other risks and uncertainties, including those that we may discuss elsewhere in this prospectus. All of these risks are filed with the SEC, accessible on the SEC's website at www.sec.gov and on or through our corporate website at www.pnc.com/secfiling and all such references are intended to be inactive textual references only. Information on these websites is not part of this document.

Our businesses and financial results are affected by business and economic conditions, both generally and specifically in the principal markets in which we operate. In particular, our businesses and financial results may be impacted by:

- o Changes in interest rates and valuations in the debt, equity and other financial markets.

- o Disruptions in the liquidity and other functioning of financial markets, including such disruptions in the markets for real estate and other commonly securing financial products.

- o Actions by the Federal Reserve and other government agencies, including those that impact money supply and market interest rates.

- o Changes in our customers', suppliers' and other counterparties' performance in general and their creditworthiness in particular.

- o Changes in levels of unemployment.

- o Changes in customer preferences and behavior, whether as a result of changing business and economic conditions or other factors. A continuation of recent turbulence in significant portions of the US and global financial markets, particularly if it worsens, could impact our performance directly by affecting our revenues and the value of our assets and liabilities and indirectly by affecting our counterparties and their performance. Our business and financial performance could be impacted as the financial industry restructures in the current environment, both by changes in the creditworthiness and performance of our counterparties and by changes in the competitive and regulatory landscape.

Given current economic and financial market conditions, our forward-looking financial statements are subject to the risk that they may be substantially different than we are currently expecting. These statements are based on our current expectations that interest rates will remain low with continued wide market credit spreads, and our view that national economic trends currently point to a continuation of severe recession followed by a subdued recovery in 2010.

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking
Information (continued)

Appendix

Legal and regulatory developments could have an impact on our ability to operate our businesses or our financial competitive position or reputation. Reputational impacts, in turn, could affect matters such as business generation and retention, management, liquidity, and funding. These legal and regulatory developments could include:

Changes resulting from legislative and regulatory responses to the current economic and financial industry environment, including conditions or restrictions imposed as a result of our participation in the TARP Capital Purchase Program.

Other legislative and regulatory reforms, including broad-based restructuring of financial industry regulation as well as changes involving tax, pension, bankruptcy, consumer protection, and other aspects of the financial institution industry.

Increased litigation risk from recent regulatory and other governmental developments.

Unfavorable resolution of legal proceedings or other claims or regulatory and other governmental inquiries.

o

The results of the regulatory examination and supervision process, including our failure to satisfy the requirements of agreements with regulatory agencies.

Changes in accounting policies and principles.

Our issuance of securities to the US Department of the Treasury may limit our ability to return capital to our shareholders.

If we are unable previously to redeem the shares, the dividend rate increases substantially after five years.

Our business and operating results are affected by our ability to identify and effectively manage risks inherent in our business through the effective use of third-party insurance, derivatives, and capital management techniques, and by our ability to meet regulatory standards.

The adequacy of our intellectual property protection, and the extent of any costs associated with obtaining rights in intellectual property, may impact our business and operating results.

Our ability to anticipate and respond to technological changes can have an impact on our ability to respond to customer demands.

Our ability to implement our business initiatives and strategies could affect our financial performance over the next several years.

Competition can have an impact on customer acquisition, growth and retention, as well as on our credit spreads and net interest income, share, deposits and revenues.

Our business and operating results can also be affected by widespread natural disasters, terrorist activities or international events that impact on the economy and capital and other financial markets generally or on us or on our customers, suppliers or other counterparties.

Also, risks and uncertainties that could affect the results anticipated in forward-looking statements or from historical performance are discussed in more detail in BlackRock's filings with the SEC, including in the Risk Factors sections of our annual reports. These filings are accessible on the SEC's website and on or through BlackRock's website at www.blackrock.com. This material is for informational purposes only and should not be deemed to constitute a part of this document.

In addition, our recent acquisition of National City Corporation ("National City") presents us with a number of risks and uncertainties related to the acquisition itself and to the integration of the acquired businesses into PNC. These risks and uncertainties include the following:

The anticipated benefits of the transaction, including anticipated cost savings and strategic gains, may be significantly harder to achieve than expected or may not be achieved in their entirety as a result of unexpected factors or events.

Cautionary Statement Regarding Forward-Looking

Our ability to achieve anticipated results from this transaction is dependent on the state going forward of the economy under significant stress recently. Specifically, we may incur more credit losses from National City's loan portfolio than expected. Anticipated financial results include the possibility that deposit attrition or attrition in key client, partner and other relationships. Legal proceedings or other claims made and governmental investigations currently pending against National City, and commenced relating to National City's business and activities before the acquisition, could adversely impact our financial results.

Our ability to achieve anticipated results is also dependent on our ability to bring National City's systems, operating procedures and to do so on our planned time schedule. The integration of National City's business and operations into PNC, which involves reconciling National City's different systems and procedures, may take longer than anticipated or be more costly than anticipated or have unanticipated effects on National City's or PNC's existing businesses. PNC's ability to integrate National City successfully may be adversely affected if the integration process results in PNC entering several markets where PNC did not previously have any meaningful retail presence.

In addition to the National City transaction, we grow our business from time to time by acquiring other financial services companies. Such acquisitions present us with risks, in addition to those presented by the nature of the business acquired, similar to some or all of those described above in connection with the National City acquisition.

Any annualized, proforma, estimated, third party or consensus numbers in this presentation are used for illustrative or comparative purposes and do not reflect actual results. Any consensus earnings estimates are calculated based on the earnings projections made by analysts who have provided such estimates. Analysts' opinions, estimates or forecasts (and therefore the consensus earnings estimates) are theirs alone, are not those of PNC and do not reflect PNC's or other company's actual or anticipated results.
