Item 8.01. Other Events

On August 13, 2015, Rayonier Advanced Materials Inc. (the “Company”) filed a declaratory judgment action against Eastman Chemical Company (“Eastman”) in the Superior Court of Gwinnett County, Georgia regarding the Company’s chemical cellulose specialty products contract with Eastman. Eastman was served with this action on August 14, 2015. The Company filed its action in Georgia because the contract provides that it is governed by Georgia law, among other reasons.

The Company’s filing asks the court to confirm the meaning of certain “meet or release” pricing and volume provisions in the agreement that require the Company, under certain circumstances, to respond to offers made to Eastman by other suppliers. The Company seeks a declaration that these provisions apply to a maximum of 7,500 metric tons of product per year. In addition, the Company has asked the court to confirm the meaning of certain contract provisions relating to pricing in future contract years.

On the evening of August 12, the Company learned that Eastman had filed a similar declaratory judgment action on August 4 in the Chancery Court for Sullivan County, Tennessee, concerning the same contract “meet or release” provisions. Eastman’s filing seeks a declaration that all of its contracted volume is subject to the meet or release provision or, in the absence of such interpretation, that the contract is invalid. The Company was served with that action on August 13, 2015.

The Company believes that the contract is valid and enforceable in accordance with its terms as to both price and volume requirements, and that the meet or release provisions should be enforced in accordance with the Company’s position.
