FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Double drive-thru chain awarded
NRN's Eat & Ear Award for Excellence in Television Advertising

TAMPA, FL - October 1, 2002 - The fun, music-driven campaign line "You Gotta EatSM" has become synonymous with the Checkers(r) and Rally's(r) brands over the past two years, resonating positively with fast food enthusiasts across the country. Now, Nation's Restaurant News, the newsworthy of the food service industry and producer of the Multi-Unit Food Operators (MUFSO) conference, has officially recognized the power and effectiveness of these commercials, awarding Checkers Drive-in Restaurants, Inc., (NASDAQ: CHKR), the coveted Eat & Ear Award for Excellence in Television Advertising.

"Checkers and Rally's is truly back and with a vengeance. The recognition from our peers is extremely meaningful to our entire team, to our agency and to our partners. We have worked hard to move our brands forward by developing creative which is on target, by implementing media plans that are both affordable and effective, and by executing at our double drive-thru concepts better each and every day," said Richard S. Turer, Vice President of Marketing at Checkers Drive-in Restaurants, Inc.

Mr. Turer continued: "Our franchise community has been extremely supportive of our marketing initiatives over the past two years - a critical component to the overall success of our business. 'You Gotta Eat' is a winner. Customers, team members and stockholders continue to identify with this campaign and respond enthusiastically. I am thrilled to receive this prestigious award."

The 2002 "You Gotta Eat" campaign introduced a new twist on the music-driven style that made the 2001 ads a hit, and paired the music with more cool and unexpected ways that people can enjoy Checkers/Rally's food in their own "on-the-run" lives. The 2002 campaign also expanded on the "You Gotta Eat" theme by introducing a new idea: people crave the taste of Checkers/Rally's unique and distinctive menu items, and when they get that craving, nothing else will do.

Checkers partnered with MARC USA and MARC Miami to research, create and execute both the 2001 and 2002 campaigns.

The new commercial premiered in February of this year in many

Checkers/Rally's markets during the Grammy(r) Awards, which typically ranks in the top five most viewed programs among adults each year. In addition to the television commercials, the Checkers/Rally's "You Gotta Eat" campaign line has been fully integrated into all points of customer contact including POP, crew uniforms and packaging.

Checkers/Rally's received the Excellence in Television Advertising award in the category of Best Single Television Commercial for a company with annual system-wide sales of $100 to $500 million. All entries were judged on the basis of creativity, originality and effective use of the television-advertising medium. Checkers/Rally's received the award at the annual MUFSO conference on Monday, September 30, 2002.

The Eat & Ear awards are sponsored by Dr. Pepper/Seven Up, Inc. The awards for Excellence in Advertising on Television, Radio and Outdoor are presented to foodservice operators in three different categories, based on system-wide sales. The winning advertisements for the previous 12 months are selected by a panel of leading advertising, production, media and creative executives. The award program is administered by Madigan & McManus.
