Form 425
April 30, 2012

Filed by Sunoco, Inc.
pursuant to Rule 425 under the Securities Act of 1933
and deemed filed pursuant to Rule 14a-12
under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934

Subject Company: Sunoco, Inc.

Commission File No.: 001-06841

Date: April 30, 2012

On April 30, 2012, Sunoco, Inc. distributed the following employee and customer materials in connection with the announcement of the proposed business combination transaction with Energy Transfer Partners, L.P.:

Dear Marketing Team,

As Brian MacDonald outlined in his company-wide memo earlier today, Sunoco has announced an important piece of news:

- Sunoco has entered into a definitive agreement to be acquired by Energy Transfer Partners, a rapidly growing and diversified leader in the energy industry that has a major presence in natural gas and natural gas liquids transportation, midstream, storage and related businesses. The transaction, currently valued at $5.3 billion, is subject to regulatory and shareholder approval and is expected to be completed in the third or fourth quarter of 2012.

This news obviously raises a lot of questions that can't be answered at this time, but I'd like to give you my perspective on what it means for Sunoco and the marketing organization.

Sunoco and our iconic brand will become an important part of a leading energy company focused on the distribution of natural gas, crude oil and refined products. The combination will provide both Sunoco and Energy Transfer with growth opportunities through greater scale, increased geographic reach and a more diverse business platform.

Our day-to-day retail operations and marketing programs will not change. Energy Transfer views our business as a solid asset with great cash flow. It plans to own the business and ensure that we are maximizing our potential in the marketplace. As a result, we have a great opportunity to showcase our talent and demonstrate what we can do.

I'm excited about staying on and leading the retail organization in the next phase of growth as part of the Energy Transfer family of companies.

While I'm sure you have many questions, we are early in this process. We will keep you informed as things progress.

Sincerely,

Bob

SAFE HARBOR FOR FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

Statements in this document regarding the proposed transaction between ETP and Sunoco, the expected timetable for completing the proposed transaction, future financial and operating results, benefits and synergies of the proposed transaction, future opportunities for the combined company, and any other statements about ETP, Energy Transfer Equity, L.P. (“ETE”), Sunoco Logistics Partners, L.P. (“SXL”) or Sunoco managements’ future expectations, beliefs, goals, plans or prospects constitute forward looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Any statements that are not statements of historical fact (including statements containing the words “believes,” “plans,” “anticipates,” “expects,” estimates and similar expressions) should also be considered to be forward looking statements. There are a number of important factors that could cause actual results or events to differ materially from those indicated by such forward looking statements, including: the ability to consummate the proposed transaction; the ability to obtain the requisite regulatory approvals, Sunoco shareholder approval and the satisfaction of other conditions to consummation of the transaction; the ability of ETP to successfully integrate Sunoco's operations and employees; the ability to realize anticipated synergies and cost savings; the potential impact of announcement of the transaction or consummation of the transaction on relationships, including with employees, suppliers, customers and competitors; the ability to achieve revenue growth; national, international, regional and local economic, competitive and regulatory conditions and developments; technological developments; capital and credit markets conditions; inflation rates; interest rates; the political and economic stability of oil producing nations; energy markets, including changes in the price of certain commodities; weather conditions; environmental conditions; business and regulatory or legal decisions; the pace of deregulation of retail natural gas and electricity and certain agricultural products; the timing and success of business development efforts; terrorism; and the other factors described in the Annual Reports on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2011 filed with the SEC by ETP, ETE, SXL and Sunoco. ETP, ETE, SXL and Sunoco disclaim any intention or obligation to update any forward looking statements as a result of developments occurring after the date of this document.

Dear Team,

This morning, Sunoco announced that it has entered into a definitive agreement to be acquired by Energy Transfer Partners, a rapidly growing and diversified leader in the energy industry that has a major presence in natural gas and natural gas liquids transportation, midstream, storage and related businesses. The transaction, currently valued at $5.3 billion, is subject to regulatory and shareholder approval and is expected to be completed in the third or fourth quarter of 2012.

This is a positive development for both Sunoco and Sunoco Logistics (SXL) that would enable the two organizations to realize their full potential by becoming a key part of a much larger company with greater resources. The combination will provide Sunoco, SXL and Energy Transfer with growth opportunities through greater scale, increased geographic reach and a more diverse business platform – which will create additional opportunities for employees of the combined company. The Energy Transfer family of companies is an approximately $41 billion dollar enterprise.

Many of the day-to-day details related to this news will be worked out over the coming months, but right now we know the following:

- Energy Transfer has said that our logistics and retail businesses will continue to be headquartered in the Philadelphia area.
- The Sunoco and SXL brands will continue to be used. The iconic Sunoco brand is one of the things they value and will look to maximize.
- SXL will continue to be traded on the New York Stock Exchange and fulfill its obligations as a publicly traded Master Limited Partnership. In essence, Energy Transfer is stepping into the shoes of Sunoco, Inc., in terms of its ownership and general partner position in SXL.
- It is planned that Mike Hennigan will continue to be chief executive officer of Sunoco Logistics and Bob Owens will continue to lead the retail marketing business. I will also be staying with the Energy Transfer family of companies in a senior leadership role.
- Given there is little operational overlap between the two companies, we don't expect significant layoffs in either logistics or retail. However, there may be some executive and corporate staff positions that are no longer required. It is too early to know specifics. We will make sure that affected members of our team are notified as soon as possible and get treated well.

- Under the transaction agreement, we will continue our plans for exiting our refinery business as previously announced and continue plans for the proposed refinery joint venture being discussed with The Carlyle Group.

Before I became CEO in March, I spoke to employees of the destination point we are trying to reach. That objective of being a logistics and retail company hasn't changed. We will continue to pursue our strategy, but as a part of a much larger organization with greater scale and resources to help us achieve our goals.

I realize that this transaction may come as a surprise, but we will be working to ensure a smooth transition over the next few months, and it is vital that we keep running our businesses well and delivering great results. Don't let this news become a distraction.

The bottom line: Stay focused. Keep moving forward. Don't slow down.

We will hold employee meetings in the coming days and weeks to answer your questions, and will keep you updated with information along the way. In the meantime, check Sunoco@Work for the most current information.

Brian

The transaction, valued at $5.3 billion, is subject to regulatory and shareholder approval and is expected to be completed in the third or fourth quarter of 2012.

You may be wondering how this news affects the proposed refinery joint venture between Sunoco and The Carlyle Group.

After talking with Brian MacDonald about the matter, I can tell you that it doesn't.

The personal commitment you heard from Brian last week to attempt to get the joint venture in place remains and it is fully supported by Energy Transfer's chairman and CEO, Kelcy Warren.

The timeline hasn't changed: We plan to operate through the end of July as announced last week.

This means that our mission in the refinery remains the same. We need to continue to improve our performance and exhibit excellent day-to-day operation of the facility. Our performance in the areas of Process Safety, Personal Safety, Quality, Reliability and Environmental Compliance continue to be a key aspect of the "sale ability" of the plant. These are things we can control.

As the sales process continues, we'll keep you informed.

Thanks for your hard work and diligence toward improving the facility.

Jim

Dear Team,

This morning Sunoco, which is our General Partner, largest unit holder and customer, announced an important piece of news:

- Sunoco announced that it entered into a definitive agreement to be acquired by Energy Transfer Partners, a rapidly growing leader in the energy industry that has a major presence in natural gas and NGL pipeline, midstream, storage and related businesses. The transaction, valued at $5.3 billion, is subject to regulatory approvals and shareholder approval and is expected to be completed in the third or fourth quarter of 2012.

What does this mean for Sunoco Logistics?

It's business as usual as we will stay focused on our growth strategy and achieving operational excellence.

With this transaction, Energy Transfer Partners is essentially stepping into the shoes of Sunoco, Inc., in terms of its ownership and general partner position in SXL. Sunoco Logistics will continue to be traded on the New York Stock Exchange and fulfill its obligations as a publicly traded Master Limited Partnership.

This is a positive development for SXL that will enable the company to realize its full potential by becoming an important part of a much larger company with greater resources, more scale, increased geographic reach and a diverse business platform.

Energy Transfer wants to get into crude oil and refined products distribution and sees the stable and growing cash flow we generate as very attractive. In addition, they see real growth opportunities for us – especially with respect to their under-utilized natural gas pipelines, our crude and products expertise, and our various other activities and assets.

I am excited about our future and plan to stay on as CEO, leading SXL in the next phase of our growth working with an even bigger and more synergistic general partner like Energy Transfer. SXL has built a tremendous record of performance, and I'm confident that by working with the Energy Transfer team we can continue to move forward, deliver winning results, and exceed expectations.

Sincerely,

Michael J. Hennigan

President and Chief Executive Officer

Dear Sunoco Branded Distributor:

As a valued distributor of our products, we would like to inform you that Sunoco has announced an agreement to be acquired for $5.3 billion by Energy Transfer Partners, a natural gas and natural gas liquids transportation, midstream and storage distribution company. The Energy Transfer family of companies is a $41 billion enterprise.

As part of this merger, Sunoco will become an integral part of a diversified leader in the energy industry, gaining greater scale and geographic diversity. Energy Transfer, which is traded on the New York Stock Exchange under the symbol ETP, is committed to building and growing Sunoco's logistics and retail businesses.

Energy Transfer Partners has told us they want to own Sunoco's branded business because of the well-recognized brand and stable cash flows underpinned by real estate in prized markets. The Sunoco and SXL brands will continue to be used. The iconic Sunoco brand is one of the things they value and will look to maximize.

Additionally, under the agreement, we will continue our plans for exiting our refinery business as previously announced and continue plans for the proposed refinery joint venture being discussed with The Carlyle Group.

For you and your customers, this corporate ownership change should be completely transparent and seamless – it will be business as usual for us. Sunoco’s distributor and retail operations will continue to be led by the same management team and headquartered in Pennsylvania. The iconic Sunoco brand and our support of NASCAR will continue as we strive to “keep people moving.”

The merger is subject to standard regulatory and shareholder approvals, and the merger process is expected to take several months to complete. If you have any questions about this news, please don’t hesitate to contact your Sunoco area manager. We value our relationship with you and look forward to continued expansion in the future.

Attached is a copy of our press release.

Sincerely,

Bob Owens

SVP Sunoco

SAFE HARBOR FOR FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS

Statements in this document regarding the proposed transaction between ETP and Sunoco, the expected timetable for completing the proposed transaction, future financial and operating results, benefits and synergies of the proposed transaction, future opportunities for the combined company, and any other statements about ETP, Energy Transfer Equity, L.P. (“ETE”), Sunoco Logistics Partners, L.P. (“SXL”) or Sunoco managements’ future expectations, beliefs, goals, plans or prospects constitute forward looking statements within the meaning of the Private Securities Litigation Reform Act of 1995. Any statements that are not statements of historical fact (including statements containing the words “believes,” “plans,” “anticipates,” “expects,” “estimates and similar expressions) should also be considered to be forward looking statements. There are a number of important factors that could cause actual results or events to differ materially from those indicated by such forward looking statements, including: the ability to consummate the proposed transaction; the ability to obtain the requisite regulatory approvals, Sunoco shareholder approval and the satisfaction of other conditions to consummation of the transaction; the ability of ETP to successfully integrate Sunoco's operations and employees; the ability to realize anticipated synergies and cost savings; the potential impact of announcement of the transaction or consummation of the transaction on relationships, including with employees, suppliers, customers and competitors; the ability to achieve revenue growth; national, international, regional and local economic, competitive and regulatory conditions and developments; technological developments; capital and credit markets conditions; inflation rates; interest rates; the political and economic stability of oil producing nations; energy markets, including changes in the price of certain commodities; weather conditions; environmental conditions; business and regulatory or legal decisions; the pace of deregulation of retail natural gas and electricity and certain agricultural products; the timing and success of business development efforts; terrorism; and the other factors described in the Annual Reports on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2011 filed with the SEC by ETP, ETE, SXL and Sunoco. ETP, ETE, SXL and Sunoco disclaim any intention or obligation to update any forward looking statements as a result of developments occurring after the date of this document.

Questions and Answers for Employees

1. Why did you decide to sell the company? What changed?

- The combination with Energy Transfer is a strategically and financially compelling transaction that provides substantial value creation opportunities for Sunoco shareholders and Energy Transfer unitholders, and will improve the ability of Sunoco's logistics and retail businesses to deliver on their full potential.

- Nothing changed with respect to our strategy – we've always been focused on driving value and ensuring we maximize opportunities for the company in what is a scale business.

- This transaction enables Sunoco to accelerate its current strategy by moving forward as an integral part of a diversified leader in the energy industry.
 - Sunoco's high return retail and logistics businesses offer a strong commercial and operational fit with Energy Transfer's existing natural gas and natural gas liquids assets.
 - Energy Transfer's current scale will provide Sunoco with an expanded geographic footprint and improved competitive position.
 - Energy Transfer is committed to building on Sunoco's current logistics and retail platforms.

2. Has a sale of the Company been the goal for a while?

- Our goal has always been to deliver value to shareholders and to act in shareholders' best interests. Our efforts in cutting costs, unlocking value, exiting poorly performing businesses, improving the balance sheet and focusing on high return businesses have been based on these principles. The compelling strategic and financial nature of this transaction also is based on these principles.

3. Will SUN and SXL continue to be traded publicly?

- Upon the closing of the merger, SUN would no longer be traded publicly on the New York Stock Exchange (NYSE).
- SXL will continue to be traded on the NYSE and fulfill its obligations as a publicly traded MLP.

4. When do you expect to complete the transaction?

- We expect to complete the transaction during the third or fourth quarter of 2012, subject to receipt of required shareholder and regulatory approvals.

5. Will many employees lose their jobs? How many in Philadelphia?

- Given there is little operational overlap between the companies, we don't expect significant layoffs in the logistics and retail operating businesses.
- It is too early to know specifics, but there will be some executive and corporate staff positions that are no longer required.

6. Will the logistics and retail businesses' headquarters remain in the Philadelphia area?

- Sunoco's logistics and retail businesses will continue to be based in the Philadelphia area, consistent with the current operating presence.

7. Will this impact your plan to form a Philadelphia refinery joint venture with Carlyle Group?

- No, Sunoco intends to proceed with its existing plans for the refineries.

8. Will you still idle the Philadelphia refinery if the deal with Carlyle Group doesn't work out?

- Yes, that remains the plan if we cannot complete the transaction with The Carlyle Group. Sunoco's Northeast refineries have lost more than $1 billion over the last three years.

9. Will this affect any of Sunoco's or Sunoco Logistics' current projects (e.g. Eagle Point expansion, Marcus Hook re purposing)

- This combination should be viewed as a positive on several fronts. Energy Transfer is a great partner for Sunoco when considering future development and expansion. Sunoco has considered repurposing Marcus Hook refinery so that it can become a key regional asset for handling natural gas liquids from the Marcellus Shale. Natural gas liquids is an area of expertise for Energy Transfer. So, while it is too early to talk specifics, we see some synergies that could have a positive outcome here in Pennsylvania.
