On April 25, 2007, Fortis, Santander and Royal Bank of Scotland issued the following press release:

25 April 2007 - Fortis, RBS and Santander Announcement

ABN AMRO invited Fortis, RBS and Santander (collectively, the "Banks") to a meeting on Monday 23 April 2007 to discuss their proposals in relation to a potential transaction with ABN AMRO. On that day ABN AMRO announced a recommended offer by Barclays and the sale of LaSalle Bank to Bank of America.

The Banks have now had the opportunity of considering their position and examining the offer made by Barclays. The Banks are of the clear view that their proposals are superior for ABN AMRO's shareholders and are straightforward from a shareholder, regulatory and execution perspective. These proposals are contingent on LaSalle Bank remaining within the ABN AMRO group and due diligence.

Last night the Banks received a letter from ABN AMRO seeking further details of their proposals and a meeting to discuss them. The Banks have accepted this invitation and summarise their proposals below. In addition, the Banks have requested that the Supervisory and Managing Boards of ABN AMRO take such steps as may be required to ensure that LaSalle Bank remains within the ABN AMRO group and provide limited due diligence information so that the Banks' proposals can be brought forward as an offer.

The following is a summary of the key aspects of the potential transaction:

- o A price indication of (euro)39 per share*, subject to due diligence (see below). This would be 13% higher than the value of the Barclays offer as of the market close yesterday.
- o Approximately 70% of the consideration payable in cash, 30% in RBS shares.
- o The Banks believe that execution risk would be lower than in a transaction with Barclays. The Banks already have significant presence and experience in all of ABN AMRO's main markets, and also have proven capabilities in delivering transaction benefits from large-scale integrations and IT conversions, underpinning their ability to manage and integrate ABN AMRO's operations.

- o The Banks believe that the potential transaction will create stronger businesses with enhanced market positions and growth prospects in each of ABN AMRO's main markets. This together with the greater combined scale of the Banks and their proven track records of growing businesses can deliver concrete benefits to ABN AMRO's shareholders, customers and employees.
- o RBS will lead the Banks' orderly reorganisation of ABN AMRO and will take on the primary responsibility of ensuring that ABN AMRO meets its regulatory requirements from completion of a transaction.

* Including the ABN AMRO 2006 final dividend of (euro)0.60 per share

These proposals are subject to certain pre-conditions, including:

- o ABN AMRO having taken such steps as may be required to ensure that LaSalle Bank remains within the ABN AMRO group. The Banks will work with ABN AMRO to facilitate this.
- o Limited due diligence on no more information than received by Barclays and Bank of America. The Banks would be able to complete this due diligence within a very short period of time.

The Banks are confident that a transaction based on the above proposals would create value for their own shareholders.

In summary, the Banks believe that, because of the materially higher value available for shareholders and the benefits to customers and employees compared with the recommended offer from Barclays, it is in ABN AMRO's stakeholders' interests for the Supervisory and Management Boards to:

- o Take such steps as may be required to ensure that LaSalle Bank remains within the ABN AMRO group
- o Provide limited due diligence
- o Co-operate with the Banks so that they can develop their proposals into a formal offer
