HUGHES/EchoStar Merger: Great News for DIRECTV Customers!

Updated: April 9, 2002

- o General Motors and EchoStar Communications Corp. have agreed to merge HUGHES (including DIRECTV) with EchoStar.
- o EchoStar owns the Dish Network

Merger information:

- o Until merger approved, it is business as usual at DIRECTV.
- o The approval process will likely take 9-12 months from the signing of the Merger Agreement with EchoStar (late Summer or Fall 2002).

When the merger is approved:

- o DIRECTV will continue to be the name you see.
- o The merged company will be able to offer you expanded services.
- o If a change in equipment is eventually needed as a result of the merger, it won't take place until some time after the merger is approved and finalized. At that time, any change in equipment that is necessary to allow the customer to continue receiving his or her current DIRECTV services will be at no cost to the customer.

For now:

- o The same DIRECTV service you love will continue, with even more enhancements planned.
- o As usual, if something changes we will do our best notify customers in advance.
- o Visit DIRECTV.com for more information as it becomes available.

Q and A

Why combine the DIRECTV and Dish Network services?

The merged company will bring you an unsurpassed television viewing experience and allows us to accelerate our plans to roll-out new and enhanced programming services. These added services will continue DIRECTV's tradition of providing subscribers with a better alternative to cable.

What specific benefits would the merger bring?

We believe that the merged company will enable DIRECTV to provide an expanded offering of services such as.:

- o Provide every customer across the U.S. with their local channels.
- o At least a dozen high definition TV channels.
- o Expanded pay per view selections and video on demand service.
- o Enhanced rollout of our high-speed Internet service.
- o Expanded broadcasting capacity to launch new interactive TV services no one else has ever provided.
- o A more robust international channel line-up.

Edgar Filing: GENERAL MOTORS CORP - Form 425

Will DIRECTV or Dish Network equipment be the new standard?

No decision has been made on the equipment standard. But if you were to need new equipment to get the DIRECTV services you currently enjoy, we would provide it at no charge.

When will the companies merge?

The merger can't happen until we get various approvals. This could take at least 9 months from the signing of the Merger Agreement with EchoStar. After approval and finalization of the merger, both services would continue for some period of time as the process to make both services compatible is implemented.

Should I convert to Dish Network now to get on their system/to get a particular channel?

No. You picked DIRECTV for its clear advantages. If you changed now you would miss out on all of DIRECTV's exclusive offerings. We are planning to include the best services of both DIRECTV and Dish when we merge companies. So, you will continue to enjoy the great programming you receive today, and more.

A Dish Network dealer/cable representative said I need to convert because DIRECTV had been sold. Is this true?

Not true. There's no need to switch. Your service will continue. If after the merger is finalized you need new equipment to continue to receive your current DIRECTV services, we'll provide it at no cost.

Will Dish Network start offering NFL Sunday Ticket?

No. DIRECTV is still your exclusive provider of NFL Sunday Ticket.

Will my city get local channels from the new combined company?

DIRECTV currently has plans to expand its local channel coverage before the end of the year. The merger will further enhance DIRECTV's ability to offer expanded local channel coverage. After the merger, the new company plans to offer local channels in all 210 designated market areas (DMAs). Today, the two companies can only serve 42 total due to constraints on satellite spectrum.

When will more information be available?

We don't anticipate any significant announcements about the merger until regulatory approval is received. This is expected to occur in the Summer or Fall of 2002. However, we will continue to update you about our expanded service offerings as well as the merger progress on our website at DIRECTV.com/news and periodically on our on-air customer information channel.

What will happen to the services associated with advanced DIRECTV Receivers (such as DIRECTV with TiVo, DIRECTV with UltimateTV)?

If a change in equipment is needed to continue receiving such services, we will provide the equipment needed to continue to receive similar services at no cost to the customer.

What will happen to DIRECTV's High Definition services?

Expansion of our High Definition service to at least 12 channels of HDTV will be a result of this merger. In addition, if a change in equipment is needed to allow a customer currently receiving High Definition services to continue to receive those services after the merger, we will provide the equipment at no cost.

I'm a Dish Network customer, how will the proposed merger affect my service? Please continue to contact EchoStar Communications with any questions you have about your satellite system and service.

Stick with the points above.
Do not speculate or ad lib about this announcement.
