Item 8.01 Other Events.

On March 13, 2018, voters in Bethlehem, New Hampshire did not vote in favor of Article 4 to change the zoning laws of the town to allow for a 70-acre landfill expansion at the company's North Country Environmental Services, Inc. ("NCES") landfill. In addition, the residents did not vote in favor of Article 22, which directed the town's Board of Selectmen to negotiate a new long-term host community agreement with NCES.

The NCES landfill is a Subtitle D landfill located in Bethlehem, NH that the company purchased in 1994. The landfill currently consists of approximately 50 acres of permitted landfill area, and is expected to have available capacity through 2021 or 2023 depending upon engineering design and permitting. The landfill is permitted to accept municipal solid waste, construction and demolition waste and certain pre-approved special waste materials. While the landfill does not have an annual tonnage limit, the company plans to place approximately 250,000 tons at the site in 2018.

The company plans to continue to work with the residents of Bethlehem on the next steps for the NCES landfill, including alternative expansion strategies past the current permitted capacity. The landfill is an important environmental and economic contributor to the community and the State of New Hampshire.

On March 8, 2018, the company received notice from the Toxic Actions Center and the Conservation Law Foundation of their intent to sue the company over alleged violations of the Clean Water Act at the NCES landfill. The company plans to vigorously defend these allegations if and when an action is filed.
