replaces the Company's existing Revolving Note with a final maturity date of May 21, 2005 to provide the Company with increased flexibility to undertake certain transactions within the covenants and representations contained within the Note. There are currently no borrowings outstanding under the Note. The Note evidences a $50 million dollar ($50,000,000) revolving credit facility with an interest rate of, at the Company's election, the Bank's prime rate or the interest rate offered generally to the Bank in the London Interbank Eurodollar market plus 1.25% to 1.75% depending on the Company's EBITDA and the amount of its Senior Debt (as such terms are defined in the Note) at the time of borrowing. The Note also makes available to the Company letters of credit. The Note contains covenants limiting indebtedness and acquisitions, and requiring maintenance of tangible net worth values and financial ratios.

The foregoing is a summary and is qualified in its entirety by reference to the full text of the Note, which is attached hereto as Exhibit 10.1.
